Practice Focus

- Real estate

Joshua is an Associate in the Business Department and Real Estate Practice Group at McDonald Hopkins. His experience includes preparing and editing closing statements related to sale or purchase of condominium and cooperative properties, drafting and editing contracts of sale for clients in real estate transactions and performing due diligence on pending purchase contracts. Joshua joined McDonald Hopkins after serving as an associate at a New York City law office specializing in residential real estate, representing and counseling purchasers and sellers through every aspect of coop, condominium and townhouse transactions within the city's five boroughs.

Joshua received his B.S. from the University of Florida's Warrington College of Business Administration, with a minor in Real Estate. He went on to study at New York Law School on a Global Law Fellow Scholarship, completing his J.D. in May 2021. While in law school, he served as President and Symposium Manager of the New York Law School Sports Law Society. He was also contributing writer to the "Conduct Detrimental" Sports Law Website.
